

THE "LORD'S" WIFE

Makes Her Appearance in the Breakfast Room at Rome, Ga.

WHERE SHE FURNISHES MUCH GOSSIP

To Those Who Are Anxious to Talk About "The Quality" Interview with Her Husband.

Rome, Ga., September 24.—[Special.]—This morning, bright and early a pretty brunette, neatly attired, entered the breakfast room of the Central hotel. She was the observed of all observers.

"There's the young lord's wife," was the whisper among the guests. All eyes were centered on her.

"Is she really worth $50,000?" "Yes," "Is she a good-looking young lady?" "Yes," "What she came down here for?" "She is far better than stayed with her people."

But then she sat and finished her breakfast. At 9:30 o'clock Deputy Sheriff Turner walked into the parlors of the Central and announced that Mrs. Lascelles could see her husband.

In that same pretty gray traveling dress she walked around to the old rock jail. Mr. Turner had arranged with Sheriff Moore to have Beresford in the upper private room, and there he sat awaiting his faithful friend—the woman who has clung to him through all his trouble, leaving home and family in her passionate love, just for his sake.

The meeting was a touching one. He took her in his arms and kissed her, and she wept bitterly.

They talked at some length, and then Beresford was carried back into his cell.

Beresford's cell is the same one occupied by Mrs. Ora McKee. The pretty wall papering she had put there still adorns the cell.

His cot is comfortable. A very handsome buff satin pillow is where he dreams of his magnificent career. He was elegantly dressed—English white waistcoat, white shirt, and white tie.

"The Lord" Is Disturbed.

The young lord is surrounded by prisoners—many colored. He said he didn't sleep a wink during the night, but sat on his cot.

"It's a horrible place. The tombs of New York are much better."

"I couldn't sleep for the rats," he remarked. The Congressmen received from Deputy Sheriff Turner the story of the journey home.

"We were delayed in bringing Beresford because all the lawyers in the case were at the democratic convention at Saratoga. As soon as Mr. Cochran and Felder returned they told Beresford they could do nothing for him, so Beresford agreed to come at once."

"We rushed immediately to Jersey City, and there found the pretty little wife with a ticket to Rome in her hand. Colonel Hamilton said that would not do. He didn't want her to travel along with them. But she had her trunk checked—four large ones—and got aboard. Sheriff Turner put handcuffs on the young lord, and his wife bitterly weeping, implored Colonel Hamilton 'not to let the sheriff do it.'"

"They were worn most of the way home, however."

"That night sleeping apartments were arranged for the party in this way: Sheriff Turner and the lord slept in the same berth and Mrs. Lascelles above them. Sheriff Turner put the lord next to the wall and laid awake on guard. As Knoxville the party walked into the hotel and ate together."

"The rest of the way home was without incident."

The Ring Episode.

Beresford says his wife has never heard about the ring episode. She won't read the papers. She will listen to nobody talking about him.

Beresford wanted the sheriff to get some of his things from New York, the diamond ring being among the number, but the sheriff rushed off with the prisoner, and would not stop. He wanted to bag the game. Beresford says he is not guilty of the charges as they accuse him. He says he can explain the ring episode also.

Beresford's valise is packed with many elegant suits—and his wife has brought along four large trunks.

Deputy Sheriff Turner has the following paper answering Governor Northern's requisition which has the autograph of Governor David B. Hill. It reads:

STATE OF NEW YORK, EXECUTIVE CHAMBER. I, David B. Hill, governor of the state of New York, do hereby certify that I have this 15th day of September, 1901, received from the governor of Georgia for the surrender of Walter B. Beresford, a fugitive from the justice of said state, and have issued a warrant for his delivery to J. Dallas Turner, the agent of said state of Georgia, who authority to receive said fugitive is annexed thereto. In witness whereof, I have hereunto signed my name and affixed the privy seal of the state, at the capital in the city of Albany, this 15th day of September, in the year of our lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

By the governor: G. S. WILLIAMS, Private Secretary.

The young lord has had a number of callers, but he won't talk to them. He has engaged no counsel yet. The cases will not come up before week after next.

It is said that Miss Lillithal, now Beresford's wife, has never received her portion of her father's estate. Several years ago he died, leaving no will. No division was made of the estate. But since she has left her family she is demanding her portion.

This case excites more interest than any before in the criminal courts of Rome.

"The Lord" Talks.

A Tribune reporter succeeded in getting an interview with him Wednesday evening, in which he unobscured himself pretty freely. Beresford was dressed in a short smoking jacket of red and yellow striped cloth and wore a negligee shirt, opened at the throat, as it was very sultry in the jail.

He stated that he was feeling much better, but was still fatigued.

Beresford's Denial.

"I have already said," began Mr. Beresford, "that I did not care to make any statement until the proper time comes."

"I do wish to say, however, that the story about the ten requisitions for me is absolutely false and has not the slightest foundation in fact. There are not even two requisitions out for me."

"Another thing you can say is this: That this indictment for larceny is all nonsense. I deny that I was ever guilty of any breach of trust in that ring matter. At the proper time I will make a truthful statement of this ridiculous statement."

"Why do you think—do I look like a man who would demand himself by a petty theft of a thing of such trifling value?"

"And then again," he continued, speaking rapidly, in an indignant tone, almost rising from his chair, "at that time I was paying attention to the dearest, sweetest, most lovely woman on the face of the earth, I thought, and could I, at such a time, condescend to such a petty theft? No! No! It is a base fabrication, having not the slightest ground or foundation to rest upon!"

Beresford rested his head on his hand for a few moments, and then suddenly looked up, saying: "Do me the favor to publish what I say about the ring story, will you? When the time comes, as I have said, I will explain that story."

PRATHER MURDER.

Further Details About the Murderer of Jack Prather's Wife.

DEVELOPMENTS IN THE AWFUL TRAGEDY

Show It to Have Been Worse than at First Supposed—The Suspected Criminal Caught.

LaGrange, Ga., September 24.—[Special.]—The LaGrange Herald will tomorrow give a more complete account of the atrocious murder committed near Moultrie, in Troup county, an account of which appeared in the Constitution of today.

Mr. Jack Prather left home about 7:30 o'clock, with a load of cotton, bound for LaGrange. When he left, his wife was sitting in the dining room, preparing to church. To the rear was a door that opened on a porch.

About an hour after Mr. Prather had gone, a little nephew of Mrs. Prather stopped by to tell her that Mrs. Prather, another aunt, who was in a buggy at the gate, would return and spend the day with her. Entering the dining room, he found Mrs. Prather lying on the floor, face downward. Calling her several times and receiving no response, he immediately ran to the back door and laid the body on the bed. Dr. P. W. Fitts hastened to the scene soon as he heard of the death, but the victim was beyond medical aid, being dead when found.

Mr. J. J. Thrash came to LaGrange as quickly as possible and broke the news to Mr. Prather, or, as he is more familiarly known, Uncle Jack. Of course he repaired to his home immediately and called on Sheriff Henderson, Coroner Candler, Mr. E. T. Winn, Judge R. M. Young, Mr. Tom Haines and others followed. The coroner promptly empaneled a jury and began an investigation.

They found that when Mr. Prather left home his wife was getting ready to church in the dining room, with her back to the door, as has been said above. It is supposed that she was only a very short time afterward that she was attacked. They also found that the bureau had been rifled and several pieces of linen taken therefrom. A pocketbook, with about ten dollars in it, was taken from a closet in an adjoining room.

Some have advanced the idea that death may have been produced by natural causes, by apoplexy or heart disease, and that the gash in the chin might have been done in the fall of the victim, and that she could have been strangled while falling, except the churning, and she was lying several feet from that. Besides, the chair in which she was seated near the churning, when Mr. Prather left, had been placed against the wall across the room. It is hardly probable that she could have moved the chair before falling, and still less probable that she could have fallen on the churning and afterwards been found some distance from the churning.

Examination of the yard showed foot prints all around the house to the door through which it is supposed the murderer entered. Suspicion fell on a negro named Allen Bray, who lived in the neighborhood, and he was arrested by the sheriff. He admitted that the foot prints were his, but said that he made them Tuesday morning when he was over the yard. Mr. Prather testified that he didn't go that way at all on Tuesday morning, but that he met him some hundred or more yards away at some negro cabins. Though there is no positive evidence, the negro poorly explained his whereabouts during the day and made some very contradictory statements before the jury. All the evidence is circumstantial, but every effort will be made to place the guilt where it belongs. Two negro women, whose names have not been learned, were arrested as accessories.

Causes of Suspicion.

A year or so ago, Mr. Prather had trouble with the negro Bray, about some hogs that he stole, and it is supposed that he has been treasuring this and waiting for an opportunity to revenge.

Some time ago he had words with Mrs. Prather about some hogs. He is a negro of bad character, has a mean face and looks as if he was capable of doing such a deed. He was brought to LaGrange Thursday morning and lodged in jail.

Mr. Prather is prostrated with grief. The awful news was very sudden and shocked him terribly. He is one of Troup county's solidest citizens and commands the respect of all who know him. His wife was a splendid woman and the indignation aroused by her foul murder is intense. We tender to the bereaved husband our sincerest sympathy.

Mr. Prather's home is near the village of Moultrie, about a mile and a half southeast. The house is in sight of several neighbors, and there were a number of hands working in the field only a few hundred yards off. The murderer went about his work very stealthily.

The Crime Grows Blacker.

THE CONSTITUTION correspondent today had a conversation with Sheriff Henderson, just arrived from the scene. He says the doctors testified that the crime of rape was added to that of murder. The guilt of the negro arrested seems to be generally conceded.

Detective Bedford, of Atlanta, is on the ground, working up the case.

Ward, seventy-two years of age, who fell dead in his own house on last Thursday. He was a trusted official for years; his home a refuge for all strangers, especially all good people.

He was caused by heart disease. Mrs. Shipp was the wife of George F. Shipp, bridge builder of the Georgia Midland and Gulf railroad. He is absent from the city and has been notified.

GREENVILLE, S. C., September 24.—[Special.]—Elizabeth Perry, widow of the late Governor P. P. Perry, died at her residence in this city at 2 o'clock today. The immediate cause of her death was blood poisoning, produced by a carcinoma, with which she had been troubled some time.

LEXINGTON, Ga., September 24.—[Special.]—This morning at 8 o'clock Obediah Stevens died at his country home, September 24. He was an old age, being eighty-four years old. He was a farmer and stock raiser, and a member of the Baptist church.

THAT LITTLE WAR TALK

Which Took Place at Archduke Albrecht's Table.

THE FATE OF A MASHER IN SAVANNAH,

Because He Put His Hand Upon Her Bare Arm.

Who Took Liberties with a Young Girl at Winter's Concert Hall—The Spectators Applaud.

"SAVANNAH, Ga., September 24.—[Special.]—There was quite a sensation at Winter's concert hall a few nights since, and at least one young man in the audience did not seem to enjoy it."

Among the members of the company now playing at the hall is an attractive looking young lady who manipulates the piano keys. About 10 o'clock, at the conclusion of one of the parts of the performance, this young lady went upstairs and on her way down passed a young man well known in the city.

He placed his hand on her bare arm familiarly as she passed. She took no notice of this at the time, but after the next act sailed up in the gallery with vengeance in her eye. Making for the festive youth she saluted him with a swinging smack on the right cheek, accompanying the blow with the remark, "Take that for your impudence."

The young man was literally paralyzed. His face turned crimson, and he turned hastily to the irate musician and began to apologize. The crowd snickered, and even the several ladies in the gallery could not repress a smile. The halting apology made by the mortified young man did not appease the young lady or return to her the dignity she had lost.

She walked up to him again, and with the remark, "Perhaps you'll recognize a lady in the future," applied her hand vigorously to the other cheek.

By this time all the starch had vanished from the gallant's appearance. He wilted and broke badly and looked as though he wished the floor to open and swallow him up.

He has not, up to the present time, recovered his easy air of graceful nonchalance, but walks around like one who is burdened down with harrowing and melancholy recollections.

A NEW SYNAGOGUE.

The Hebrews of Macon About to Erect a New Temple.

MACON, Ga., September 24.—[Special.]—The Jewish citizens of this city have decided to erect a new and very handsome place of worship on some central site in the city.

A representative of the Tax Commission learned today that it is the purpose of the sect to erect a building which will cost no less than $40,000.

A committee has already been appointed to select a site for this building, and this committee is now almost ready to make a report.

It is very probable that the work on this building will be begun at once, and finished as soon as possible.

The synagogue, which is used at present is not near large enough to accommodate the 500 members of the congregation, but the new one will be made fully large enough.

Cannot Enter the Macon Drill.

Augusta, Ga., September 24.—[Special.]—It is doubtful if the Augusta military companies will accept the invitation to enter the military competitive prize drill at Macon's fair and exposition next month. The trouble is that Augusta's companies are all practicing for the Augusta exposition's interstate drill, which is only open to maiden companies, which have not been prize winners in championship drill. If any Augusta company should enter Macon's drill, and, by chance, should win the prize, they would be barred from the exposition drill and they all seem more anxious to enter the drill here than to go to Macon. The first prize at Augusta's drill is $400, more than Macon offers, which also makes a big difference.

Kept Out of the Reward.

Augusta, Ga., September 24.—[Special.]—Policeman Hill returned this morning from Columbia, but did not get his $50 reward for the capture of Henry Mays, the negro murderer he caught here and delivered to the sheriff of Edgefield county, South Carolina. The sheriff advised the governor not to pay the reward until the negro was further identified. That was not necessary, however, as the negro admitted here that he was the right man. Chief Hood has written a letter of complaint to Governor Tillman.

Brought Home for Burial.

ADAMSVILLE, Ga., September 24.—[Special.]—John Langston, a former resident of this place, was shot last Saturday night at Adamsville, by a policeman, the ball entering his right side, passing entirely through him. He lived until yesterday, and was brought here for burial Thursday. He was a brother to Mrs. Lizzie Luther, of our city. The shooting was accidental. He was a young man of about twenty years.

OLIVE SPRINGS, Ga., September 24.—[Special.]—There will be a meeting of the farmers of the neighborhood at Olive Springs next Saturday night, at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of making arrangements to get Stewart & Brown, of Atlanta, to locate a canning factory at the crossing between Marietta and Smyrna, on the Western and Atlantic railroad.

The Guards on the Stage.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., September 24.—[Special.]—The Thomasville Guards will give a minstrel performance at an early date for the benefit of the army fund. Among the features down on the programme will be a drill by members of the company without commands.

AUGUSTA, Ga., September 24.—[Special.]—Willie Routledge, a negro who forged the name of Governor Tillman, of South Carolina, to check for $25, and passed it off on Mr. W. H. Numbarger, was brought here today from Edgemoor, S. C., and jailed.

The inexperienced young teachers appear to be cognizant of the responsibilities of their respective situations, and are conducting themselves accordingly to their respective duties.

One of the teachers presents a question which I beg leave to have the board consider. The question has arisen several times heretofore, and is likely to arise again; hence I ask for instruction which will guide me in this case, or other similar cases that may arise. (The question referred to is what disposition shall be made of a pupil who has been in the public school for seven years and has made no advancement—one who is admitted by those who have taught him to be non-compos mentis.)

W. F. Slaton, Superintendent.

Mayor Hemphill, acting chairman of the committee on finance, reported approved bills amounting to $13,961.67. And he also reported that the superintendent had collected from non-residents $476 and deposited the same.

A communication was received from Miss Roach pertaining to various matters connected with the schools. This was appropriately referred.

On motion of Judge Hammond, the rules were suspended, and the business course having been explained by Mr. Smith, Chairman Hammond, of the committee on finance, in study, recommended a three-year course in the business department and the use of "Swinson's Outline History."

Mr. W. S. Thompson, chairman of the committee on finance, on account of great pressure of private business, having felt constrained to resign his position since the last meeting of the board, the question of accepting his resignation was brought up. A resolution was adopted unanimously that Mr. Thompson be urged to reconsider his determination to resign his position as chairman of the finance committee. Mr. Thompson did not indicate his purpose, but it is believed he will withdraw his resignation.

The New Decatur Street School.

Mr. Hirsch, in behalf of the committee on salaries, submitted the subjoined schedule of salaries for the teachers in the new Decatur street school:

For principal, $650 per annum.

For assistant principal, $450 per annum.

For third grade teacher, $400 per annum.

For second grade teacher, $350 per annum.

For first grade teacher, $300 per annum.

The above report was agreed to.

Mr. Hirsch asked for authority to purchase nine copies of Worcester's dictionary, to be given the schools not yet supplied with them; also three dozen chairs for the Boys' High school. His request was granted.

Mr. Beattie, chairman of the committee on buildings, reported that the Gattrell home, on Decatur street, had been rented for nine months at $75 a month; that workmen were preparing it for a schoolhouse; and that the rooms would be furnished and such equipments procured as are needed; that the new school will be opened October 1st. This school will accommodate about two hundred and forty pupils. The report was adopted.

The Teachers.

Mr. Bray, chairman of the committee on teachers, made the following nominations:

Principal of the new school, Miss M. Brown.

Teacher of the third grade, Miss Lellie Garcia.

Teacher of the second grade, Miss Flora McDonald.

Teacher of the first grade, Miss Alice Robinson.

Assistant principal, Miss Addie Steinheimer.

Assistant principal Calhoun street school, Miss Nellie Dibble.

Teacher of third grade Fair street school, Miss Bassmore.

Promoted to the sixth grade of Calhoun street school, Miss Hattie Thompson.

Teacher in fifth grade Calhoun street school, Miss Paine.

Mrs. Marsh was appointed temporary teacher of the fifth grade of Fair street school.

Mrs. Wise to teach the two grades in the night school.

Miss Annie Fuller, assistant principal of the Walker street school, and Mrs. Wither were permitted to exchange places.

Principal A. N. Wilson, of the night school, reported progress, and that the prospects of the school are bright.

While the board was in session a newspaper reporter sat complacently taking notes. Some of the members objected to his presence on the ground that the meeting was private, and certain privileges might best be kept out of the public print.

Chairman Smith strongly sustained this view, and said he saw no reason why the reporter should be permitted to remain.

But most of the members took a different view, and the reporter was not molested.

WILL ELECT OFFICERS.

The Humane Society Will Hold a Meeting for This Purpose Tuesday.

On next Tuesday the Humane Society will hold its annual election of officers, appoint committees for the ensuing year and have reports of its officers for the past month.

The meeting will be held at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The work of the society since its re-organization has won for it much favorable comment and warm support, and of late interest in it has been very great.

There are now 200 active members, each one anxious to have the purpose of the institution carried out.

An instance of the way in which offenders suffer who have been warned and who hear not was illustrated on Wednesday. Some days ago Newton Petty, driver of a furniture wagon, cruelly treated and almost killed his horse on Forsyth street. A warrant was sworn out against him by the Humane Society, and on Wednesday he was fined $25 or he would have been committed to jail as an alternative of thirty days in the chain-gang.

The retiring officers of the society are: President—Hon. Robert J. Lowry.

Vice-President—Mr. T. Frank Beck.

Secretary—Mr. J. S. Fauchon.

Treasurer—Mr. T. W. Birney.

Executive Committee—Messrs. Joseph Hirsch, A. S. Soud, J. F. Burke, Rev. A. F. Sherrill, D. D. G. Armstrong, Mrs. W. H. Tuller, Mrs. George S. May, Mrs. A. E. Buck, Mrs. J. F. Burke, Mrs. Burton Smith, Mrs. J. H. Morgan and Mrs. Rhode Hill.

NO TROUBLE AT ALL.

Atlanta Meets West End and Wins as She Pleases.

Atlanta and West End met yesterday at Fort McPherson. Quite a large crowd was present to see the local men win about as easy a victory as they would care to gain.

Atlanta scored in the first inning and continued to do so until the sixth, when the game was called. The plate had been crossed by Marshall's men at the rate of five times an inning. West End did not average one.

Beyond the one-sided playing, Marshall's batting was the main feature. Out of five times at bat, he made two singles, a double, a triple and a home run.

Eleven earned runs in five innings very easily tallied the score. The following was the score:

WEST END.....0 2 0 0 0 4

Atlanta.....3 6 9 3 0 25

Errors—Atlanta, 11. Two base hits—Marshall, Roach. Three base hits—Marshall. Home run—Marshall. Stolen bases—Turner, Fitcher, Stone, Merrill, 2; Wilson. Double play—Harris, Cornell, Murphy. A GOOD SHOWING.

The Count of the Mail Matter Received at the Postoffice FOR THE PAST WEEK FOOTED UP.

The summing up of the count made at the postoffice at the postoffice the past week was completed yesterday morning.

The figures were not as large as was expected. The third week of a month always the busiest in the postoffice. Taking this, however, into consideration, the results were gratifying. It was a big undertaking, and quickly and accurately done.

This count was made all over the United States and thus a comparison can be made with the business of postoffices in other cities.

At the last report Atlanta ranked in the south behind New Orleans, Louisville and Richmond only. She may do even better this time.

The figures of the count of that week are as follows:

Domestic First-Class Matter—Letters mailed to other postoffices, 126,484; drop letters for local delivery, 13,647; wrapped parcels, sealed, mailed to other postoffices, 38,814; postal cards deposited for local delivery, 9,203.

Second-Class Matter—Mailed by publishers and news agents to other postoffices, 60,129; mailed by publishers and news agents for local delivery by carriers, 4,608; transient papers and periodicals prepaid with stamps affixed, 2,761.

Third-Class Matter—Mailed to other postoffices, 40,413; deposited for local delivery, 2,740.

Seeds, scions, bulbs, roots, etc., mailed to other postoffices, 3.

Fourth-Class Matter—embracing all mailable matter not in foregoing, merchandise, etc.—Mailed to other postoffices, 1,698; deposited for local delivery, 8.

Matter for foreign countries, letters and sealed parcels, 414; all other matter to foreign countries, 147.

Official matter, free of postage, 6,410; making the total number of pieces, 307,303.

Total weight, 37,419 pounds and 4 ounces, or nearly thirty tons.

Amount of postage, $4,580.05.

The image shows a vertical, dark, and heavily textured surface. It appears to be a close-up of a book cover or a piece of aged, weathered paper. The texture is grainy and uneven, with various shades of dark gray and black. There are visible signs of wear, including small white specks, faint scratches, and a vertical crease or fold line running down the center. The lighting is somewhat uneven, with a slightly brighter area on the left side, creating a sense of depth and highlighting the surface irregularities.

THE BERNER BILL.

The Bill and Substitutes Will Come Up
Next Tuesday.

WILL ADJOURN ON OCTOBER 15TH.

The Ocala Resolution Will Come Up in
Its Regular Place on the Calendar.

The Berner bill came up as the special order of the day yesterday. The bill was read, and then the substitute, which the general legislative committee had reported back favorably, in lieu of the original bill, was read.

"Now," said Dr. Chappell, of Laurens, "by request, I introduce a substitute."

This was the bill perfected at the meeting of "Berner members" Wednesday night. It was read.

Then the substitute, submitted in the minority report of the general legislative committee, was read. This is the "Goodwin substitute," by Mr. Goodwin, of Fulton.

Mr. Tatum, of Dade, got the floor.

"The Berner bill," said he, "is an important measure. In addition to that bill we already have two substitutes, and one of these, at least, has never been printed. I move that the bill and the substitutes be recommitted to the committee on railroads, and that the substitutes which have not been printed, be printed and placed upon the desks of the members."

"I move as a substitute," said Mr. Hill, of Meriwether, "that the bill be not referred to any committee, but simply printed and distributed, and made the special order for next Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock."

Mr. Smith, of Decatur, announced that he had still another substitute. This was sent to the clerk's desk and read.

Mr. Tatum amended his motion, so that the railroad committee be instructed to report back the bill and substitutes Tuesday morning. The vote was first on the motion of Mr. Hill, of Meriwether. It was adopted, 35 to 34.

The Ocala resolution was reported back to the house yesterday.

The majority report is that "it do pass by substitute"—the substitute being practically the original resolution.

This reads:

Mr. Speaker: The committee on state of the republic had under consideration resolution 130, endorsing the platform of principles as set forth by the National Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union at Ocala, and report it back to the house with the recommendation that it do pass by substitute. Respectfully submitted,

BRANCH, Chairman.

This is the minority report:

Mr. Speaker: We the undersigned members of the committee on the state of the republic, to whom was referred the resolution in relation to the Ocala platform, desire to submit the following minority report without entering into the merits of the principles and policy announced in the Ocala platform: We are clearly of the opinion that action on the resolution by the house is unwise. This house is not a political convention, but a legislative body, and we respectfully submit that the questions raised in the proposed resolutions should be met and passed upon by the state democratic convention, which is to convene early next year. They cannot restrict their delegates to that convention and their action will reflect the wishes of the people. Unnecessary agitation of this question by this body cannot aid in solidifying the democratic party of Georgia, nor in securing the triumph of democratic principles. Respectfully submitted,

C. C. BURN, JOHN W. BURN, W. E. FAUST.

Mr. Sibley, of Cobb, moved that the rules be suspended for the purpose of at once considering the resolution.

Mr. Barrett, author of the resolution, called for the yeas and nays.

The yeas were 37, the nays 53. Not receiving the necessary two-thirds vote, the motion was lost.

So the Ocala resolution takes its turn with the other resolutions pending, and will come up in its regular place on the calendar.

The first special order yesterday was a bill to amend 719 (a) of the code, so as to have the railroad commissioners elected by the people and to reduce their salaries.

This is by Mr. Harris of Catastosa. The adverse report of the committee was disagreed to and the bill passed to a third reading.

The committee substitute for the bill by Mr. Maxwell, of Talbot, to amend the common school laws so as to create or establish "county teachers' institutes," came up on third reading.

Mr. Maxwell, and Mr. Jackson, of Heard, spoke for the bill. The yeas and nays were called and the bill passed, 103 to 25.

The "jury bill," by Mr. Williams, of Richmond, "to regulate the finding of verdicts by juries in civil cases in this state," etc., was reconsidered and will come up in regular order for passage.

The bill by Mr. Fleming, of Richmond, "to amend an act approved October 20, 1889, providing for the time and mode of performing service by application by striking therefrom certain words," was passed.

The house concurred in the joint resolution adopted by the senate to adjourn sine die on the 15th of October.

The bill by Mr. Huff, of Bibb, to amend an act approved December 29, 1888, entitled, "an act to amend section 671 of the code of 1882 by changing the condition in the contractors' bonds upon the recommendation of the commissioners of roads and revenue, or the ordinary in the counties where there are no such commissioners, and to fix the liabilities of the counties for injuries caused by reason of defective bridges," by striking out so much of said act as makes counties primarily liable in every case for injuries caused by reason of defective bridges, was tabled.

The bill by Mr. Sapp, of Chattahoochee, to repeal section 829 of the code, which provides for returning for taxation plantations and mines on the line between two counties, was indefinitely postponed.

The Afternoon Session.

These bills were passed:

By Mr. Todd of the thirty-fifth—To provide for the advancement and trial of cases in Fulton superior court to which the city of Atlanta is a party or materially interested.

By Mr. Seay of Floyd—To require each and every miller or manufacturer of flour or meal, and every merchant or dealer in the same, to stamp or have printed on each sack the number of pounds of flour or corn meal contained therein.

By Mr. Lumsden of White—To protect game in the state of Georgia during certain seasons.

By Mr. Huff of Bibb—To require the county commissioners in the several counties of this state, and the ordinaries in counties where there are no county commissioners, to keep a register of the public roads, etc.

By Mr. Lark of Clay—To amend section 220 of the code providing for making affidavits in trials of criminal cases in county courts.

By Mr. Boileau of Bibb—An act regulating banks, and for other purposes.

By Mr. Wright of Edgewood—To exempt pensioners of Confederate soldiers and widows from garnishment and all other legal process.

By Mr. Dodson of Clayton—To require the judges of the superior courts of this state to file in change in the grand jury certain sections of the code which relate to violations of the Sabbath day.

tions of the code which relate to violations of the Sabbath day.

These Did Not Pass.

By Mr. Burney of Morgan—To limit the powers of the judges of the superior courts to incorporate towns in this state. Recommended.

By Mr. Campbell of Meriwether—To amend "an act to make the second term after suit is brought in justice's court trial term in certain cases," etc., approved September 26, 1883. Passed.

By Mr. Chappell of Laurens—To amend article 7, section 12, paragraph 1 of the constitution. Recommended.

By Mr. Huff of Bibb—A road law bill for Bibb county. Withdrawn.

By Mr. Peek of Henry—To forbid the discharge of fire arms within 100 yards of any public road, etc. Indefinitely postponed.

By Mr. Holizlaw of Houston—To amend section 4578 of the code, which relates to running freight trains on Sunday. Tabled.

Ready for the Governor.

Senate amendments to the following house bills were secured in:

By Mr. Heard of Elbert—To incorporate the Washington and Middleton Railroad Company.

By Mr. Perry of Worth—To punish seining in any waters, lakes, ponds, or other running streams of the county of Worth.

By Mr. Perry of Worth—To prevent the killing of deer, wild turkeys and quail in Worth county, etc.

By Mr. Matthews of Montgomery—To incorporate the town of Mount Vernon.

By Mr. Odum of Colquitt—To furnish Colquitt county with standard weights and measures.

By Mr. Danwoody of Glynn—To incorporate the Glynn Title and Loan Company.

CAPITOL GOSSIP.

To amend the charter of Atlanta so as to provide for the Forsyth street bridge, and other things.

To amend the local option laws of Hart county.

The house education committee met yesterday afternoon and requested that the house recommit the senate educational bill to the committee. Some action will be taken in the matter by the committee today.

Hon. E. C. Thrash, of Meriwether, was on the floor of the senate and house yesterday shaking hands with legislative friends who were with him in the legislature six years ago.

The alliance caucus railroad bill, agreed upon as a compromise for the Berner and other bills, seems to have met with universal favor in the house. It is generally believed that with a few slight amendments it will prove satisfactory to a large majority of the house. It is considered a conservative measure, and when the members understand that it will not involve the railroads in lawsuits, it will command strong support.

Among all the members of the legislature, few have done better work in a quiet way than Mr. Tatum, of Dade. He is a young man, serving his second term, who has taken an active part in developing the mineral and agricultural interests of Georgia and matters of general interest to the people. He seldom speaks but when he does his remarks are to the point. His judgment on matters of general interest to the state while in the legislature has been commented on by the press of the state more than any young man in the house.

Mr. Tatum deserves credit for his splendid work.

HE WILL BREAK JUGS.

That's What Sam Jones Says He Will Do Sunday Afternoon.

Sam Jones spent a few hours in the city yesterday.

He was looking thinner than usual, but his old familiar smile still flickered over his jolly features.

He came to Atlanta from Montgomery, near which city he and Sam Small have been attending a camp meeting of the old-time order. Judging from Mr. Jones' appearance the camp meeting has proven itself to be too many for him.

He was seen by a CONSTITUTION reporter just before he left for Cartersville on the 1:30 o'clock train yesterday afternoon.

"I'm sick," said the famous evangelist, "and I am going home to recuperate. I think I'll be 'round all right in a day or so."

"You were announced to deliver a lecture tonight at Prohibition hall; why was it deferred?" Mr. Jones was asked.

"I am not able to speak tonight, but if I am all right Sunday afternoon I will give them something to think about."

"What line will you speak on?"

"I'll just break jugs," replied the Rev. Jones, "break jugs."

"Will you start the municipal campaign?"

"No, I'll just break jugs. They ship their jugs up to our town, and I am going to come down here and break some of 'em. When I get through there'll be jugs and jugwumps flying in the air. See if there ain't."

He puffed away at his cigar in a calm and confident way, which showed his belief in what he had said.

His "jug breaking" will no doubt be largely attended Sunday afternoon.

CHOOSING POLICEMEN.

One Hundred and Fifty Men Examined

Yesterday Afternoon

BY THE POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

Five Regulars and Thirty Extras to Be Elected—Each Applicant Closely Questioned.

Thirty-two supernumeraries and seventy-five new men were examined by the police commissioners yesterday morning.

There are five regular vacancies to be filled on the force and five supernumeraries must be chosen to fill the places of those promoted to regular places.

Besides this thirty men must be selected to do regular duty during the Piedmont exposition, commencing the 19th of next month and continuing for three weeks.

To begin the work of selecting these men the police commissioners met yesterday morning at 10 o'clock to examine applicants for the places.

The five regular men are to come from the super, and each of those applied for a place. The remainder will be given places as regulars during the exposition, and of these enough will be selected to fill the list of regulars and make up a new list of supernumeraries.

The super were examined first. They went before the commission one by one, and answered the questions put to them.

Then came the new men, seventy-two of them. Some were excellent men, others indifferent, but all bore the appearance of being above the average of those who usually apply for places on the police force.

Recommendations were first read and then the men were called and viewed.

The appearance of each was noted closely, and questions put to him.

Age, occupation, and the time they had lived in the city was first asked. Then questions as to habits.

Several admitted that they occasionally took a drink, but didn't make a habit of it, and didn't get drunk. Some admitted that they had been arrested for drunkenness and other causes, but all declared that they had quit the former, and that the latter was through a mistake.

"Have you ever been arrested?"

"Yes, sir," replied a good-looking man with a black mustache.

"What was it for?"

"Well, it was through a misstatement of facts to the chief about some women, and I was never prosecuted. It was not right that I was arrested, and the chief will let you so."

This appeared to satisfy the commissioners, until one asked if that was the only time he had been arrested. The applicant puzzled awhile, and the commissioner asked:

"How many times have you been arrested?"

"Oh, about a dozen or so, but that was just for being drunk."

All were closely quizzed, and each commissioner marked on his list his opinion of each applicant. It was 2 o'clock before all had been examined, and an adjournment was then taken.

No decision will be given as to the men until the council has made the necessary appropriation. The commission will then meet and choose the men.

The members of the board unite in complimentary remarks about the quality of the applicants, and are especially pleased with the supernumeraries.

THE PERSECUTION OF THE NEW YORK LIFE.

It is a little over three months since The New York Times began its crusade against the New York Life Insurance Company, and every day during that period it has printed from one to three columns of matter attacking the company and its officers.

While President Beers has been the chief object of these assaults every officer connected with the company, every director and a number of the more prominent agents have come in for a goodly share of abuse. Never before, in the history of journalism, has a newspaper of standing pursued a prominent financial institution with such vindictive maliciousness. If Mr. Beers were the republican candidate for the presidency of the United States, The Times could not pursue him with more violence than it has shown towards him during the past three months. That this attack is a vindictive one is apparent to all who read the articles, for it is clear that everything of importance that has been alleged against the company was printed during the first week of the campaign, with the exception of the Banta charges, and a summary of these were given at that time.

If exposure of mismanagement and "reform" in the practices of the company were the objects The Times had in view, everything that could be accomplished in this direction was secured by the earliest of its publications, for the officers of the company promptly demanded an examination at the hands of the superintendent of insurance, and such examination was promptly entered upon. This is the process provided by law for settling questions that may arise regarding the solvency or management of insurance companies, and satisfying any doubts the policyholders may entertain regarding them. It is for the protection of policyholders that insurance departments are maintained; that expert actuaries and examiners are employed, and that the law confers upon the superintendent of insurance arbitrary powers over all insurance companies. It would have been supposed that a "reform" newspaper, after having set in motion the machinery of the law to ascertain and correct alleged abuses, would leave the matter in the hands of the law officers; but The Times has insisted upon a trial by newspaper instead. Or, rather, it has denied the accused a hearing, and instead has tried them daily, found them guilty and pronounced sentence upon them. It has assumed the duties of a public prosecutor, a high court of justice, a jury and a judge, and has formally declared a verdict of guilt against the persons whom it accuses. This may be justifiable in the eyes of a "reform" newspaper, but the public too fair minded to submit to such summary proceedings and will prefer to await the verdict that the lawfully constituted authorities shall pronounce after a fair, full and impartial investigation of all the charges—in other words, they will await the result of the examination of the company that is now being made by the insurance department.

The days have gone by when "trial by newspaper" will be accepted by the public, and the daily papers that have prostituted legitimate journalism to pure sensationalism are responsible for the fact that the public has so little confidence in their utterances.

In the New York Life case, it should be remembered that at the first assault not only did the officers demand the fullest investigation provided for by law of all charges put forth, but they immediately began a suit for libel against The Times, laying their damage at $100,000. This suit will enable The Times to get before the courts whatever evidence it may have to sustain its charges. It will thus be seen that the officers of the New York Life have taken every lawful means to meet the charges preferred against them, and they express the utmost confidence that as a result of these proceedings the integrity of their management of the trust funds consigned to their care will be made apparent.

The Times continues to ask: "Why do not Mr. Beers deny these charges?" That he has not replied to each individual specification is true; but it is also true that he has denied in general terms most emphatically every allegation impeaching his integrity or the integrity of the management of the New York Life. If he were to answer each charge The Times has made he would have no time for anything else, and as fast as one was answered another would be manufactured. The Times is a daily paper, and Mr. Beers does not happen to own a similar one in which to print his replies, lacking which he must rely upon the mediums the law provides for the refutation of the charges against him, and to these he has appealed. It is not his fault that the examination of a great company like the New York Life takes months to complete, or that the courts are not prepared to dispose of libel suits at a day's notice; he is obliged to take his remedy by such means and at such times as the law provides. Mountain Time is at liberty to continue thrashing over its old straw day after day. Its motives in so doing can be only matters of conjecture. It is known, however, that when it printed the facts regarding the Merzbacher defalcation it had no other material, and no grievance against the company or its officers. The Merzbacher matter was legitimate news, and it was properly used by that and other journals. When that appeared, however, The Times was offered all the old matter that had been seeking publication for years, and accepted it as a continuation of the Merzbacher sensation. As we have heretofore explained, all that old matter has been reported to two insurance superintendents anonymously, and was rejected by them because they knew it came from disappointed persons who had been connected with the company, but who did not dare to put their names to the charges. It had also been offered to different publishers, who refused it, because the evidence to sustain the charges were lacking. The Times probably did not know these facts, but, scenting a sensation, eagerly bit at it. Then came the suit against it for libel, and the spirit of vindictiveness and malice was aroused. Hence the persistency of its attacks. That it is malicious and vindictive is shown by its printed matter, as well as by its refusal to print anything favorable to the company.

We know it sent a reporter to one gentleman of vast experience in life insurance, who would consent to be interviewed only upon the condition that all he said should be printed; and informed them that his opinion of the New York Life was favorable. He received word shortly after that an interview with him would not be needed. Articles that have appeared in The Times, but the extracts have been torn from their context and so twisted as to make it appear that we had condemned the New York Life, and found Mr. Beers guilty of the Times' charges. Every reader of The Times knows that to be untrue. These are only samples of the unfairness with which The Times has prosecuted its crusade against the company. Instead of working in the interest of the policyholders and seeking for a complete and impartial report by proper authorities as to its condition and management, it seeks to foment dissatisfaction among them, and to induce them to sacrifice their insurance and the interests they have bought and paid for. The doubt and suspicion it has cast upon the New York Life is not confined to that company alone, but distrust of all companies and of the beneficent system of life insurance has been engendered in a considerable extent. But it matters not to The Times the amount of injury it may do the policyholders or to other companies; Mr. Beers has had the audacity to sue it for libel, and must be crushed if it is in the power of the paper to do it. Fortunately, The Times is alone in this work of so-called "reform," none of the other journals caring to share the "honor" of attacking a great financial and benevolent corporation, whose solvency is admitted by even its most active competitors. In the days of the old Tweed regime The Times did good service in exposing the corruption that pervaded the city government. Since then it has sought to pose as a great political and social reformer, but has never been able to achieve substantial results in that direction. In addition to attempting to "reform" the New York Life, it is also engaged at present in an attempt to "reform" the government at Washington, and the navy department in particular. Rear Admiral Walker has been brought to the bar, tried in the columns of The Times, found guilty and condemned. We observe, however, that he is still in command of one of the government fleets, apparently enjoying the full confidence of the government. So, too, William H. Beers, is still at the head of the New York Life Insurance Company, and is likely to remain there unless ousted by the lawful authorities in accordance with the laws of the state, notwithstanding the reiterated cry of The Times that "Beers must go." Trial by newspaper is no longer in vogue, and a discriminating public will wait for some higher authority to pronounce upon the management of the New York Life before condemning Mr. Beers or any of his associates.—From The Spectator, New York, September 17, 1891.
